Deputation Requests Council Take Action To Improve Drainage Ditch

Bylaw No. 595 To Close Portion of Rear Street Given Its Several Readings

The perennial question of the drainage ditch at the rear of the business places on the north side of Mill Street was in the forefront again at the regular meeting of the Village Council held in the Council Chambers on Monday night.

Messrs. F. Bartlett, G. Mouck, Ray Poste and S. McArthur were members of the deputation and pointed out the possibilities of flood damage to the properties concerned because the western end of this ditch was not large enough to take the flood waters at the time of the spring break-up. Fortunately last year's heavy snow went away gradually and there was no damage, but they were uneasy about the future. Efforts by them to have the property holders at the western end enlarge the ditch had been fruitless and they wanted Council to take steps to have the necessary work done.

It was pointed out that this ditch was on private property and members of Council were unwilling to commit themselves until legal opinion was obtained. The suggestion was made that those concerned take the matter to the Ontario Water Resources for settlement, but members of the deputation felt this to be too costly.

Special Meeting

On motion the Clerk was requested to invite all those concerned to a special meeting of Council on Tuesday, August 18th, when the matter will be discussed further.

Asks For Retaining Wall

Mrs. Ann Ackers also addressed Council asking for the construction of a retaining wall along the east side of the ditch on the north side of Victoria St. She planned the erection of a residence on her property and wanted the wall to prevent the fill washing away. Members of Council expressed the view that this was a matter for the individual property owner, but left the matter in abeyance until next week's special meeting.

Dump Hours

A. Campbell, who looks after the Village dump, advised Council some business men wanted a change in the days on which the dump was open. After discussion it was agreed to have the dump open Mondays, Thursdays and Saturdays, and advertise same.

M. Gibson, resident engineer on the sewerage project, addressed Council relative to sewage installations, pointing out that too many singles had been allotted to comply with the contract with the Ontario Water Resources. It was agreed that the matter be left in the hands of the engineer.

Chief of Police Sutherland gave his monthly report, which was accepted on motion of Councillors West and Bateman.

Clerk F. R. Mallory tabled correspondence from A. A. Hay, Dept. of Highways, Kingston; Canadian National Railway; Paul Tripp; City of Barrie; Dept. of Education with cheque for $865.10 being grant towards community recreation; and Dept. of Municipal Affairs, with cheque for $102, being 1959 prepayment in lieu of taxes.

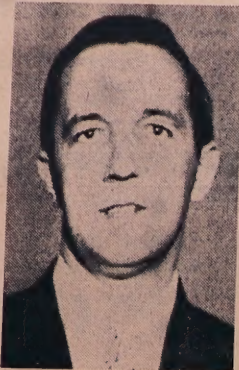

The following accounts were presented for payment:

W. Sutherland, $96.60; J. Parker, $11.00; Stirling News-Argus, $79.74; Alex Bush, $40.00; M. Tripp, $7.10; A. Elliott, $62.00; W. L. Pollock, $30.00; Bell Telephone, $50.35; Township of Rawdon, $56.00; H. E. Cooke, $140.40; Stirling Motor, Sales, $4.50; Hutton Hardware, $71.61; Morton's Body Shop, $84.62.

Bylaw No. 595 to close a portion of Rear Street was given its several readings and passed with Councillor H. R. Tompkins in the chair.

On motion of Councillors C. Bateman and R. West, the Reeve and Clerk were authorized to sign all

"Rotary Works for International Understanding," States Governor

Harold J. Black Paid Official Visit to the Stirling Rotary Club On Tuesday

Rotary clubs in 113 countries throughout the world are united in an endeavour to promote International Understanding, Good Will and Peace. That was the message of Harold Black, of Haliburton, Governor of District 701 of Rotary International, in addressing the Rotary Club of Stirling Tuesday, following a conference with local Rotary officers and committee chairmen.

In addition to the activities of the more than 10,200 Rotary Clubs within their own communities to promote this objective, Mr. Black explained, Rotary International has awarded grants of more than $3,000,000 in the past 12 years through its programme of student fellowships, which enable outstanding college graduates to study for one year in countries other than their own, as Rotary ambassadors of good will. Since 1947, when the programme was established, 1,202 Rotary Foundation Fellowships have been awarded to students in 67 countries for study in 44 countries.

"With fellowship and service to others as its keynote, Rotary provides a common ground for nearly 500,000 business and professional executives throughout the world, regardless of differing nationalities or languages or political and religious beliefs," the Rotary District Governor emphasized.

"In addition to the promotion of international understanding," Mr. Black continued, "special emphasis is being placed by Rotary Clubs in this district, which includes 28 Rotary Clubs in this part of the Province of Ontario, on Community Welfare and Crippled Children's Work."

Mr. Black urged the local Rotarians to attend the Rotary District Conference to be held in Haliburton in September and to make plans for the Club to be well represented at the 51st annual convention of Rotary International, which will be held in Miami Beach, Florida, U.S.A., next May.

THE BIBLE TODAY

(By Rev. C. R. Rudd)

A colporteur has been described as "a man with a bag in his hand." This bag or sometimes a pack is filled with Bibles, Testaments, and Gospels in the language or languages of the territory in which he serves.

"The work of colportage," writes Monsieur J. Blumenthal, General Secretary of the French Bible Committee, "remains the most effective means of contact with the general public. The increasing use of Bible stands at trade fairs is also a method used in a growing number of localities for the strengthening of the witness of the Church. Some of our colporteurs have attended inspirational gatherings at Boulogne-Sur-Mer, the Franco-Belgian Colporteur's Conference at Amougies, and fine young people from France went to the Youth Camp in Austria.

Mrs. R. R. Bonsteel Winner of Dominion-wide Essay Contest

"How Can I Train My Child To Be A World Citizen?" Subject of Essay

Mrs. R. R. Bonsteel, wife of a United Church minister, recently won a Dominion-wide essay contest with her essay: "How Can I Train My Child To Be A Citizen of the World." The contest was sponsored by the Federated Women's Institutes.

The Bonsteel family moved to Bronte two weeks ago where Rev. Bonsteel was transferred as minister of Walton Memorial Church. The family resided in Bethany for five years and before that in Stirling. The essay is here reprinted in full:

(By Susan Bonsteel)

My oldest child is five. She is growing up in a world which has conquered its own borders and is turning towards outer space. Fantastic as this fact is to us, to her it will be commonplace. She will see that man is in a fair way toward conquering the universe, while at the same time his own nature and his own society baffles him. This contradiction will either make her cynical or make her exhilarated. I hope it will be the latter. If that exhilaration will lead her on to greater learning and deeper understanding of herself and society.

My child is shy. I cannot change her nature, but perhaps I can lead her to see that shyness is often self-absorption. I can take her with me on visits to homes of opulence, homes of neatness and homes of squalor, and by my own attitude show her that it is only the person that is important. A wealthy person may be stuffy, and a slatternly woman dull and boring. A farmer's wife may be neat and clean, a doctor's wife may be a poor housekeeper, and yet they may both have the joy of living in their eyes. I will try to show her that she must help other people not because she loves them and wants to do things for them.

I hope somehow to get her to think for herself. I will give her a first-rate grounding in my own Faith, but encourage her to use it only as a foundation to build her own castle of belief. When she comes to the point of abruptly questioning all she has learned, I hope that my teachings will show her that merely putting aside one set of beliefs is not enough; she must fill the vacuum with something that satisfies her.

Love of Reading

I hope by example to instill in her a love of reading. Children's books will be everywhere in the house, with a good sprinkling of stories about other countries. Later there will be good fiction, biography, history, travel and the literature that seeks to find the reason beyond things. She will learn to read newspapers, and keep up to date on current events. A large map of Canada and a globe of the world will be in front of her all the time. I hope she will become a good Canadian, because a citizen of the world is first of all a citizen of her own community and her own nation.

When she is in high school, I shall encourage her to bring home all sorts of friends. I hope she will bring them home not diffidently, but naturally, forgetting entirely to "warn" us that Dulcie is Negro, or Harumi is Japanese-Canadian. If she can learn to accept people as people, liking them or disliking them for their own personalities and not for their appearance or background she will not be in danger of professional "do-goodism" in her relationships later on.

Other Language

I should like to spend a summer with a French-Canadian family, learning their way of life, their society, their religion and their language. I should like her to learn at least one language other than English thoroughly and have a reading knowledge of another. I should like her to spend one summer hostelling around Ontario and some other parts of Canada, preferably with a group of girls of different backgrounds and different faiths. I should like her to have camping experience, to learn self-reliance and a love of the out-of-doors that will be a point of contact with many European young people.

If she is good enough in her studies, I hope she will want to go to college, even though she has to work a year or so first to earn money for it. I should like her to have a good grounding in the arts as well as in her specialty. In college I will encourage her to have one or two outside activities which will bring her into contact with a variety of people — the Student Christian Movement, the drama club, sports. Somehow or other I hope she can spend one summer touring Europe, far from the haunts of the camera-laden tourist. She might spend a month in a service project of some sort, perhaps a work camp where half a dozen nations are represented and where she stays in one spot long enough to feel her way into it, and where she lives with the same people long enough to learn their language and to think their thoughts.

Other Lands

If she becomes a nurse, or stenographer, or teacher, I will encourage her to spend a year or so moving around, taking jobs in different countries on an exchange basis, learning about other countries and other people. When she comes home I hope she talks about what she has learned because she will be a woman, and a woman's greatest contribution in any field is in the area of human understanding and human tolerance.

While she is travelling around, I hope she writes, many, many letters home.

And when she has children of her own, I hope she reads this.

Vincent Farrell Injured In Highway Accident

Vincent Farrell, proprietor of the general store at Sulphide, is a patient in Belleville General Hospital in a satisfactory condition, following a highway accident near Plainfield on Tuesday night of last week. Mr. Farrell complained of general soreness and underwent an examination in Belleville General Hospital, to determine if there were any fractured bones. Police said Mr. Farrell was alone in his truck when the vehicle left the highway and crashed into a tree. It is understood that a tire blew out, causing the crash.

NEWS FOR THE BUSY FARMER

NEW FORAGE

Quaker Comfrey, a high-protein, low-fibre forage herb, native to the Caucasus of Russia, may prove valuable to the small holder in Canada.

But, says R. W. Robertson of the Canada Department of Agriculture in Ottawa, it is unlikely to be of importance to the average farmer.

Quaker Comfrey is a coarse, hairy, perennial with basal leaves more than one foot in length. Under suitable conditions the large tap root will penetrate the soil to a depth of eight or nine feet. The stem attains a height of forty-eight inches and bears blue flowers that turn magenta pink when mature.

This introduction is a hybrid. Propagation is mainly by root cuttings taken in the fall or spring. The plants are set in rows 30 to 36 inches apart each way to facilitate cultivation. One acre requires approximately 4800 to 5000 cuttings. Comfrey will grow in most types of soils provided they are not too acid and it will tolerate moderate shade. It is a poor seed producer.

The crop is cut before blooming, usually four or five times during the season depending on conditions in the area. Comfrey doesn't stand grazing and is injured if cut less than two inches above the ground. It is therefore usually cut and fed in a wilted condition or it may be made into silage. It is claimed to be relished by cattle, horses, pigs and poultry, after they have acquired a liking for it.

Samples taken at Ottawa showed it contained 18-22 per cent protein and about 8-9 per cent fibre. Last year four cuts yielded a total of 19.3 tons of green matter or 2.06 tons of dry matter per acre. Under irrigated conditions almost three times this yield of green matter was obtained.

The plant is relatively free from disease and is not attacked by insects. It is very hardy and drought resistant. The crop is costly to establish and difficult to eradicate. It is claimed it will continue to produce for 10 to 20 years under reasonable care.

GOOD WAYS TO RING A BULL

It's poor practice to wait until a bull has demonstrated he can't be handled by a halter before you ring him. The demonstration time may end up in tragedy.

Livestock experts of the Ontario Department of Agriculture suggest ringing the bull when he's about one year of age. Use a copper ring of 2 to 2½ inches in diameter — no larger or it might interfere with his eating.

Inserting the ring is no easy job, and it is a good idea to tie the bull up snugly with a halter to a solid post and crowd him up against a wall to prevent struggling. Grab the nostrils with the thumb and forefingers, pull forward on the nose, and with a trocar and canula (a knife or iron punch will also do) pierce the thick partition between the nostrils.

Both the trocar and canula are pushed through, then the trocar is removed and the canula left in place. The sharp end of the ring is next placed in the canula and is pushed on through the nose at the same time the canula is removed.

The ring can then be snapped shut to a screw inserted to keep it closed. It might pay to hold a box under the ring until the screw is well started; otherwise the bull might flick his head and the screw get lost. After the screw is fastened, file the joint and hinge smooth so that there's no irritation.

A bull should be taught to offer his nose to his keeper. This can be done if the bull isn't abusively treated; make sure the bull isn't hitched or handled during the time the opening is healing. It's easier to teach a bull to mind, too, if he's been halter broken when a calf.

When a bull is around two years of age, it might be wise to put a stronger ring in his nose. This can be about 2½ to 3 inches in diameter and preferably made of cannon metal. Check the ring every month from then on to make sure it hasn't weakened by wear or worn thin by being dragged. A one inch piece of rubber tubing slipped over the lower part of the ring will cut down a great deal of the wear.

Dream At Home Not On Road

Today's car is so easy to handle that we are becoming a nation of "subconscious drivers." With automatic transmissions more and more in use, steering that is virtually effortless and engines that purr quietly and require no attention, driving on a highway takes increasingly less mental effort and virtually no physical force. This has a tendency to lull the driver into a semiconscious state — a state that is extremely hazardous. No responsible driver can afford to let his mind veer away from the business at hand, even on open stretches. The best place for "wool-gathering" is in an easy chair at home — not behind the wheel.

Sends Greetings To Mr. and Mrs. E. Ward

London, S.W. 5, England
Dear Mr. and Mrs. Ward:
You will no doubt be surprised to hear from me. Because of the usual circumstances, I am extending belated congratulations for your Golden Wedding Anniversary. During the later part of April I came to Britain for an extended holiday. Yesterday I was at Ontario House (King Charles II Street), London, where I picked up the Peterborough Examiner and saw the item concerning your anniversary and memories came rushing back to me.

You remember (so do I) the big fire (about 1908?) I recall buying an overcoat (1913) from your father (F. T.) and seeing you and Steve Nolan in the store on that day too. I boarded at the Blissonette house while at high school and on the occasional week-end, I stayed in Stirling and attended the Presbyterian Sunday School with Nell Blissonette, where your father taught the teen-age boys' group. And I remember Neil was not too easy to keep under control! No doubt we all can recall citizens — G. G. Thrasher, W. S. Martin, Clint McGee, W. R. Mather, E. T. Williams, Butler Yeater, Jas. A. Currie (never in a hurry!) Geo. Luery, A. D. McIntosh, Buzz Hough, Geo. E. Kennedy, Morden Bird, J. P. Coulter, the elderly librarian whose name — now I remember, Clute, and that uncle of mine Geo. Richards, who truly had the patience of Job.

I remember son Tommy and a younger brother, but both were much younger than we were. The Blissonette house was just like home to me.

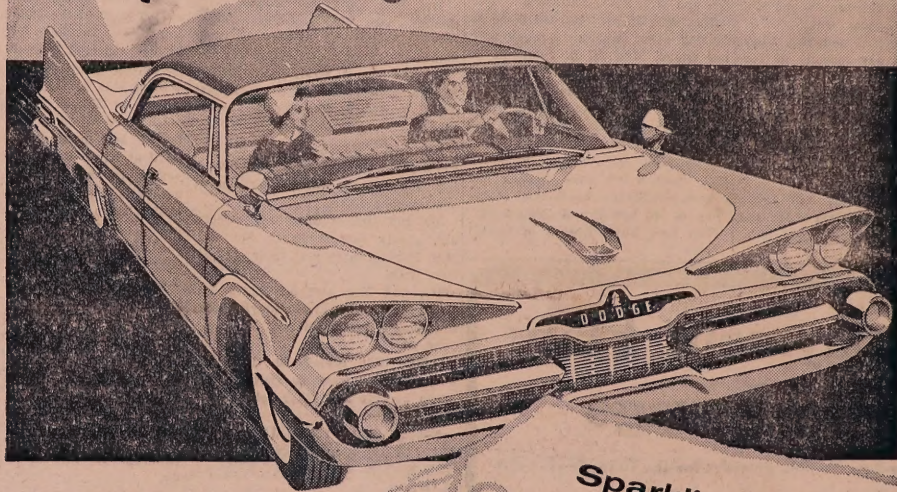

The Dr. Hume, Don and of course Roy passed away quite young. I hope to see Roy's grave in France before I return. I am having a most memorable and pleasant holiday. I had a return passage for June but had it changed to November (God willing). I just must return to this pleasant and historic land. Give my regards to Tommy — he probably will not remember me — and my best wishes are with you, Mr. and Mrs. Ward, in coming years.

Sincerely,
Angus P. Todd

Surprise Party On Anniversary

On Monday evening, August 17th, the home of Mrs. Mildred Graham, of Wellman's Corners, was the scene of a surprise party in honour of Mrs. Edith Sharp. The occasion was Mrs. Sharp's 79th birthday anniversary.

As Mrs. Sharp was escorted to the chair of honour from the darkened double dining room came the melodious voices of eighteen guests singing "Happy Birthday," accompanied by Mrs. George Watson at the piano.

During the social evening Mrs. LaPlante and Mrs. Watson sang "The Old Rugged Cross." The time was spent in conversation as Mrs. Sharp is now living in Stirling and news of the community and visiting with friends and neighbours seemed to top the list.

Mrs. Sharp was presented with a basket of gladioli, also a gift of money and numerous cards for which she graciously thanked all for their remembrance.

A bountiful lunch was served by the hostess assisted by her daughter, Eleanor, Mrs. John Carlisle and Mrs. B. Seeley, the special feature being a pink and green decorated birthday cake.

Amid good wishes to Mrs. Sharp a most enjoyable evening drew to a close.

Springbrook Farmers' Union

Springbrook Local No. 171 Farmers' Union met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Williams for their regular meeting on the evening of August 13th with a fair attendance.

Morton Reid, the President, presided. A report from the last Board meeting at Guelph was heard.

Discussions followed on various subjects of real interest to farmers; also on the annual convention coming up early in October with Mrs. Hopkins, the lady president, as speaker.

At the County meeting on August 12th a letter was read from the Provincial President, Gordon Hill, asking that the annual election of officers be accompanied with a banquet. It was decided that the different Locals do this in turn and Springbrook decided to see what their group thought.

This matter was brought up and it was moved that Springbrook Local would cater to them. Plans will be made later. A lunch committee was named. The remainder of the resolutions were dealt with.

The next meeting will be held in the Orange Hall, Springbrook, on September 10th with Mr. Clarence Graham, of Tweed, as guest speaker. The meeting adjourned, lunch was served and a social time spent.

Special Meeting Village Council

Discussion On Drainage Ditch — Request Additional Sewerage Connections

Members of Village Council met in special session on Tuesday night with Reeve K. Ray presiding and all Councillors in attendance.

Several of the business men owning property on the north side of Mill Street were present and a general discussion on the drainage ditch at the rear of their properties ensued. It was claimed by some of the delegation that there was a bottleneck at the western end of the ditch before it goes under Mill St. and if this were changed the problem would be solved.

Various suggestions were offered as a means of overcoming the flood hazard with the delegation expressing the view that Council should undertake the work. Speaking for Council Reeve Ray stated the ditch was located on private property and Council was not prepared to assume responsibility for any part of it. He agreed it was a contentious problem but thought those concerned could settle the matter.

It was suggested that a price be obtained on the work required to make the ditch of a uniform dimension throughout. With this information the matter of costs might be arranged equitably.

Additional Services
M. Gibson, resident engineer on the sewerage project, reported that owing to several new dwellings being erected that the number of sewerage connections would exceed the number included in the present contract. Already there were 95 doubles and 110 singles accounted for, whereas the contract called for 205.

On motion of Councillors Bateman and Morton the Clerk was instructed to ask permission from the Ontario Water Resources Commission for 20 additional services, and that a copy of the letter be forwarded to Hisey & Barrington, consultant engineers.

It was also agreed to purchase the southern part of Carleton Wright's lot on the east side of Henry St., the same being required for the sewerage project, at a price of $500.

Following discussion of several minor items of business Council adjourned.

Pyjama-clad Stirling Cottager Catches Muskies With Bare Hands

(Ontario Intelligence)

Ride him cowboy!

The Calgary Stampede may have its own particular brand of excitement with bronc busting cowpokes doing their stuff, but Easterners have their own brand of marine style cowboys.

Take for instance the private rodeo staged Sunday morning in the Trent River by pyjama-clad Grant Potter, of Stirling, who successfully rode a 23-pound muskie and landed him with his bare hands.

Mr. Potter didn't even require the assistance of Mrs. Potter who hastily ran to the cottage to get a fish net. When she returned her husband was astride the 42-inch muskie off the end of their dock. He landed the big fish minutes later without assistance.

Still in his pyjamas after a cool night's sleep, Mr. Potter was taking a Sunday morning stroll in the vicinity of his cottage when he noticed what appeared to be a dead fish lying just under water off his dock.

He got a pole with the idea of showing the dead fish out into the current to allow it to drift downstream.

But the fish wasn't dead and it started to swim away when touched by the pole.

Seeing that it was a live muskie, Mr. Potter dove head first into the water and grabbed the fish with his bare hands.

Neighbouring cottagers, hearing the commotion, arrived in time to see the fish being landed, barehanded.

"When I got back from the cottage with the fish net, Grant was astride the muskie off the end of the dock," Mrs. Potter related. "He didn't even require the fish net."

"It was once in a lifetime," she said. "It will never happen again."

THE BIBLE TODAY

The Good Driver

Hundreds of thousands of Canadians are happily planning a car trip for the holidays. For many of these, tragically, it will be a long journey... to the hospital ward, or even to the grave.

To any single motorist, the danger is slight, statistically. Usually, indeed, the average driver believes the possibility of death or injury so remote that he gives it no consideration. Yet every driver who sets off on a holiday should remember that shattering collision is more than a shadowy possibility: It is a certainty... for someone. That someone could be you. Make sure that it isn't.

Holidays bring a sense of excitement, of freedom from restrictions. This is one of the factors that can add dangers to the highway. If a driver's feeling of excitement is reflected in the handling of his car, he is driving badly. Good driving is smooth, controlled and inconspicuous says the Ontario Safety League.

"Highway driving should never be a contest" says Mr. F. H. Ellis, Ontario Safety League General Manager. "Don't try to beat anything this coming holiday. Don't try to beat the car ahead, or the car behind that wants to pass. Don't try to beat the fatigue you will feel if you drive too long without a break, and above all don't try to beat the clock."

Horticultural Society Hints

1. In hot mid-summer cut flowers for table arrangements and bouquets in the early morning or the cool of the evening. Always use a sharp knife and strip lower foliage from all stems and the thorns from roses. Plunge all flowers in a deep container of cool water. You'll find your cut bloom will remain fresh looking for days.

2. Now is the time to order your bulbs for fall planting. The early buyer gets the best selection.

3. Lily bulbs are being offered and they should be planted as soon as you receive them. Madonna lily will bloom next summer. Plant this lily about two inches deep. This comes up a green plant in the fall. It must be protected so lay a berry box over the plant and later when the ground is frozen cover with some leaves or straw. Most other lilies require a planting depth of 6 to 7 inches. Lilies must have good drainage. They will put up with most everything else but wet soggy feet.

4. Divide perennials like iris, poppies, peonies and others that have finished blooming. Discard the old and substitute newer, better varieties bought from up-to-date dealers.

5. Start pansy seed now for next spring bloom. Start in a cold frame or any well prepared bed that can be shaded from the sun. After the ground has frozen mulch with straw.

Bend onion tops at ground level to speed up ripening. Sun dry onions.

Output of creamery butter in Canada during 1958 was up 11 per cent from the previous year to 336,922,000 pounds; butter in storage at January 1st, 1959, totalled 94,000,000 pounds, an increase of 24,000,000 pounds over one year earlier.

Unless a man is doing all he can he is doing less than he should.

In Memoriam

BICE — In loving memory of F/L W. J. Bice, 39630, who was killed while serving with N.A.T.O. forces at No. 2 (F) Wing R.C.A.F. Grostenquin, France, on August 25th, 1958.

It was at Cholley, France
I stood at an open grave,
And watched them lower the dear husband

I would have given my life to save;
But I knew my tears would waken
That soul in the silent clay,
So I laid my heart beside him
And silently walked away.

—Ever remembered by his wife Mary. 28-1p

BICE —
What we would give if we could say
Hello, Dad, in the same old way;
To hear your voice, see your smile,
To sit with you and chat a while,
So you who have a father
Cherish him with care,
For you'll never know the heartache
Till you see the vacant chair.

—Sadly missed by daughters Barbara and Carol and sons Douglas and Christopher. 28-1p

RAY — In loving memory of a beloved sister, the late Mrs. Murney Ray, who passed away August 19th, 1953.

Past her suffering, past her pain,
Cease to weep for tears are vain;
She who suffered is at rest,
Gone to heaven with the best.

—Lovingly remembered by Russell, Doreen and mother. 28-1p

OF MANY THINGS

(By Ambrose Hillis)

AMBROSE AS JUDGE!

The greatest honor I've been paid in a long time has been my selection as a judge of weekly newspapers in an important province. When the editors chose me for the job, I glowed with pride — but last night, when I was up to my ears in weeklies, trying to do an honest job of evaluating them, I wondered if I had a lapse into insanity when I accepted the job! I had thought it could be done in a few days; I'll be several days and a good many nights at it, and even then I'll be wondering if I did it properly.

I wish I could go into the homes where weekly papers are read and buttonhole you folks for some help

What do you like about your weekly? What makes you read it? What do you think constitutes a good editorial — is it one that says the things you believe, or one that makes you think hard? Do you look for fancy prose or do you prefer blunt, solid, lay-it-on-the-line writing?

One thing has been striking home to me. When I get a paper that has a human, flesh-and-blood touch, which is hard to describe, I enjoy it. Even when I do not know the people or the local problems, I find myself reading on and enjoying what is obviously the flow of life in that community.

Of course, I like good prose, too, and it is surprising how often you find it in a weekly paper. Something, quite often, that the editor probably dashed off in a hurry to fill a column turns out to be pretty smooth, absorbing stuff, with real life in it. I can forgive misprints, poor layout, and almost anything else if that life and vigor and immediacy are there. I say to myself, "This isn't a machine-made paper — this editor is in touch with his community, in full contact with the environment, and the whole tone of the paper shows it."

I have a friend who was for many years the editor of an important publication. I have called him in to help me, from time to time. I covered the names of two papers, and showed him only two items about which I was in doubt. He wasn't much help. He read both items twice. They were quite different. Yet he, who has bought and judged publishable material for years, said, "It's a draw. They're both darn good. I'd go ehno, meenie, mienie, moe if I were you." Not much help.

Anybody got any ideas on how to judge a weekly paper?

West Lake W.A. Entertain District Arthritic Patients

The W.A. of West Lake United Church served tea to twenty-five patients of the Quinte Branch of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society and several of the branch's auxiliary members.

Mrs. Arthur Hyatt and Mrs. C. Hamilton welcomed the guests. Tea was served in the church hall where the long tables were covered with white cloths and decorated with bouquets of summer flowers. Mrs. Fred Greatrix and Mrs. Libby Furze poured tea. Serving and visiting with the guests were Mrs. C. Mullens, Mrs. Lila Cummings, Mrs. Janet Van Cleef, Mrs. Norman McDonald, Mrs. A. P. Hyatt, Mrs. Joe Kleinstuber and Mrs. C. Hamilton. Miss Philippa McDow, physiotherapist for the Quinte Branch was also on hand to assist the patients.

Mrs. Elmo David, President of the Women's Auxiliary to the Quinte Branch of C.A.A.R.S., explained to the ladies of the West Lake W.A. the work of the society and in particular the work of the local unit, aided by its auxiliary to bring relief and comfort and happiness to those suffering with this dreadful disease.

Mrs. J. A. Layton, vice president of the auxiliary thanked the ladies of West Lake Church for acting as hosts.

Patients were brought to West Lake from Stirling, Trenton, Belleville, Wellington and Picton and before returning home they were taken for a drive around the county. Every-one enjoyed the outing.

Transportation for the patients and auxiliary members was arranged by Mrs. Don Williams.

What Others Say

ABOUT POTATOES

(Frederick Gleaner)

Potatoes are good things to eat, one of the most tasty and nutritious of our common foods. The fable that they are unduly fattening has been spread, and has caused credulous people to abstain from eating them.

The truth is that potatoes are a food of extraordinary qualities in building energy and in providing the body with essential ingredients. The truth is that potatoes are not fattening.

Most New Brunswickers eat potatoes in some of the many different ways New Brunswick cooks know how to prepare them. Many eat them three times a day and are the healthier for it. It is a practice which might well be generally adopted.

HOME UPKEEP

(Sault Star)

Owners of homes should be encouraged to improve them, instead of being penalized, and it might be a sound idea if some type of point system could be introduced by which conscientious home-owners could be rewarded for the work and improvements made.

If, at the same time, it was made clear that houses would never have their assessments lowered because they were allowed to fall into decay, a lot more trouble would be taken by home-owners across the country to project their investment.

A POLICEMAN'S LOT

(By George Cadogan)

Editor of the Durham Chronicle

A large number of weekly newspapers cross our desk each week and we cannot help noticing the amount of space devoted to police problems.

Policing a small town is a problem. On the basis of one constable for each 1,000 persons, at a salary of $3,000, it costs $6,000 for salaries in a town of 2,000. Add another $1,000 for an auto plus another $1,000 for uniforms, holiday and extra help, telephone and other expenses, and the budget comes to $8,000.

If the assessment of the town is a million dollars, the police budget accounts for eight mills of the tax rate. But even with eight mills the town has only one man on duty at a time. To provide 24-hour coverage, it is necessary for each man to be on duty 12 hours a day, seven days a week.

On the basis of simple arithmetic, a small town constable is expected to work 84 hours a week for about $80.

When a small town constable takes action against law-breakers he often runs up against an invisible wall. Leading citizens and merchants listen sympathetically to complaints against the constable. Councillors often discuss matters in a manner that undermines the police force.

The local constable who is trying to do a job is often left far out on a limb. Sometimes even the magistrate and crown attorney don't give him much support.

HOW INDEPENDENT SHOULD THEY BE?

(The Rural Scene)

The fracas over alleged political interference with CBC programming raises the question of the independence of government boards and commissions, and how far such independence should go.

The one inescapable fact is that, no matter what the law says, the public will hold the Government responsible for the performance and the behaviour of all boards and all agencies charged with the performance of public duties; and no government can hope to evade that responsibility.

This is inevitable in a country like Canada where the people are sovereign. For the Government is the only instrument they have through which they can control all public bodies and public servants.

A Government that pleaded lack of authority to control a board of which the people did not approve would soon be asked what it was there for; and would probably itself be asked to resign.

This being the case, it is folly to expect any government to sit idly by and allow an independent board to pursue policies at variance with the Government's own views of the country's needs.

The Government should have a definite policy for every board to follow, and should see to it that that policy is not departed from. It is the duty of every government to see that its policies are not sabotaged by any boards or commissions; and, if it has reason to believe that sabotage is being attempted, or that policies inimical to the good of the country are being promoted, it should not hesitate to interfere.

In radio broadcasting there are so many ways in which insidious propaganda can work to undermine the foundations of our democracy and the freedom of our people that we sometimes wonder whether the Government is vigilant enough in watching that the CBC is not being used for such purposes.

MAN'S BIRTHRIGHT OF DOMINION

(From the Christian Science Monitor)

What is man? To this question many may answer, "A human being, a material personality." But this material person, all too often at the mercy of sin, sickness, disease, and unhappiness, this frail mortal, struggling under the weight of heavy burdens, is not the man of God's creating.

After studying a reproduction of Millet's painting "The Man With The Hoe," Edwin Markham penned his poem of the same name. In it the poet cogently asked:

Is this the Thing the Lord God made and gave

To have dominion over sea and land;
To trace the stars and search the heavens for power;

To feel the passion of Eternity?

Surely the answer is, "No!" In the very first chapter of Genesis we read that "God created man in his own image" (verse 27). And the next verse states that God gave man dominion over all the earth.

Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, which is in conformity with the Scriptures and especially the works of Christ Jesus, writes in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (page 475): "Man is not matter; he is not made up of brain, blood, bones, and other material elements. The Scriptures inform us that man is made in the image and likeness of God. Matter is not that likeness. The likeness of Spirit cannot be so unlike Spirit. Man is spiritual and perfect; and because he is spiritual and perfect, he must be so understood in Christian Science."

One may say: "I seem very far removed from this spiritual man. Are there then two — a material man and a spiritual man?" There is only the man God made, but we need to consider two concepts of man — the false and the true. The world generally believes the false, material concept to be the real man.

One can begin, little by little, to cast off the false concept and put on the true one, to accept the man of God's creating and to strive to demonstrate this truth.

THE FOOD BASKET

CANNED FRUITS AND VEGETABLES SIZED TO SUIT SHOPPERS

Canned foods are used by large and small families in every income bracket, in every section of the country. There are canned foods to suit all of these families and to suit all tastes.

One evidence of this is in the number of sizes of cans in which fruits and vegetables are available. There are six main sizes:

10 fluid ounces, 1½ cups; 15 fluid ounces, 1¾ cups; 20 fluid ounces, 2½ cups; 28 fluid ounces, 3½ cups; 48 fluid ounces, 6 cups; 105 fluid ounces, 13 cups.

The sizes of cans which may be used for fruits and vegetables are outlined in detail in government regulations. In addition to those already mentioned, a few special sizes of cans are allowed for baby foods, juices, a few vegetables, soups and spaghetti.

The term "fluid ounce" means the measure or volume of the can, not the weight of the food in it. However, the weight of the fruit or vegetable which must be present in each size of can is specified in the regulations and it is the same for each grade. For example, in a 15-ounce can of peach halves in syrup, whether the grade is Canada Fancy, Canada Choice or Canada Standard, there must be 9 ounces (by weight) of fruit; in a 15-ounce can of sliced peaches in syrup there must be 10 ounces of fruit.

The fruit and vegetable processors aim to please budget-minded shoppers and that is why they pack their products in several different sizes of cans. Since many homemakers seem to buy smaller cans of certain fruits and vegetables a greater proportion of these are made available now than previously.

In the Canada Table of Food Values

a 4-ounce serving is suggested for most canned fruits and vegetables. This means you would probably buy cans containing:

10 fluid ounces, for 2, or for 2 adults and 1 small child; 15 fluid ounces, for 2 adults and 2 children; 20 fluid ounces, for a family of 5; 28 fluid ounces, for a family of 6 or 7.

Of course, if second servings are popular in your home, you will need to buy a larger can than the size listed here for your family.

When following another car the rule is: "Keep one car length back for every 10 m.p.h. of speed." The Ontario Safety League suggests another mental picture to establish the correct following distance when cruising on the highway. At 50 m.p.h. the distance between you and the car ahead should be not less than the combined length of two large road transports. If the length is less you are in unnecessary danger.

Every Canadian has a very direct interest in the woodlands.

NEWS FOR THE BUSY FARMER

SOME TIPS ON BUYING WINTER WHEAT SEED

Bill Henderson, secretary of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, works pretty closely with winter wheat breeders of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. His job is to take the varieties that our researchers provide then sell farmers on the fact that quality seed pays. The researchers are right behind him.

"After you select the wheat variety that is recommended for your region, make sure you get that variety," advises Henderson. "And the only positive way you have of obtaining the variety you ask for is to buy pedigreed seed (registered or certified). All pedigreed crops have been field inspected by inspectors of the Plant Products Division of the Canada Department of Agriculture to determine varietal purity and identification."

He adds: "Both registered and certified seed have blue tags on the bags that indicate their certificates have been issued for varietal identity and purity. At the present time there are 3 grades of registered and 2 grades of certified seed. There are also 3 grades of commercial but since you can't be sure of the identity and purity I suggest you buy pedigreed seed. If you plan to seed your wheat on clean land, then only Grade No. 1 of either registered or certified seed should be purchased."

And if your land has weeds and you plan to spray? "You might use the other grades of registered or certified seeds," answers Henderson. "Remember that No. 1 seed of all classes of seed has higher germination and a much smaller tolerance for weed seeds and seeds of other crops than Grades No. 2 and No. 3."

"Almost all pedigreed winter wheat is treated for disease. All registered seed offered for sale this year is guaranteed free of dwarf bunt," he explains.

He concludes: "According to information from one University, the cost of seed in producing a crop of wheat is between 8 and 10 percent of the total crop production cost. It's sound economics to purchase the best seed possible so that the remaining 90 percent of the crop production investment is protected."

RECIPE FOR ACCIDENT-FREE LIFE WITH COMBINE, FORAGE HARVESTER

"Even relatively safe equipment like forage harvesters and combines aren't accident-free," says Hal Wright, safety specialist with the Ontario Department of Agriculture. "The forage harvester, unlike the mower with an open bar and sickle, has most of its fast moving parts under cover," adds Wright. "However, some farmers let their harvester run into disrepair. Such things as knives that are operated so long without sharpening that they become dull, can cause accidents. Last summer, an Eastern Ontario farmer lost his arm while cleaning out a clogged harvester while it was still in operation."

"Even though the manufacturers advise against the practice of cleaning out clogged material on a moving harvester, it's still being done. Another cause of plugged harvesters is windrows that are so large that the machine can't handle the amount of forage going through," says Wright.

He advises: "Keep the fan or cutter head housing closed while the machine is running; don't allow 'hitchhikers' on the tractor or harvester; and stop the harvester before you dismount from the tractor to lubricate, adjust, or clean out clogged material."

"Combine safety takes in similar points," says the safety expert, "but many of the problems are different. Sometimes grain is set on fire by a careless operator, who throws a lighted cigarette butt away, either when he's lubricating the machine or when he's on the driver's seat. If the fire doesn't start until he is around the other side of the field it can destroy a large part of the crop before he even notices it. Complete fields have been burnt out this way."

An overheated bearing or a belt that slips and creates friction can also start fires, he adds. Good maintenance is the answer.

Wright suggests: "The tractor and combine engines should be stopped before refueling. It's actually safer to refuel either first thing in the morning or after lunch when the engine exhausts are cool. And it's a good practice to periodically clean off the accumulation of chaff which builds up on the machine and use metal instead of glass sediment bowls to eliminate breakage and spilt gasoline."

Other safety ideas Wright has are: Shut off the P.T.O. before leaving the operator's seat to avoid straw spreader injuries.

Don't apply the brakes too fast on hills; the combine might tip.

Keep children away from the combine and tractor.

FIELD BINDWEED

Field Bindweed is one of the meanest of weeds, states the Field Crops Branch, Ontario Department of Highways. It is sometimes called Creeping Jenny and this name aptly describes it. Like a common criminal, it has many other aliases. Since its flower resembles that of the Morning Glory, it is often called Wild Morning Glory. It is also called Hedge Bells, Corn Lily, and Sheep Bine. Bindweed might be compared to a snake, for it twines around and all over other plants, often choking and smothering them to death. The seriousness of this weed is emphasized by the fact that it is amongst the six weeds listed as Prohibited Noxious in the Canada Seeds Act.

Field Bindweed is a perennial, which reproduces by seeds and underground stems. The above-ground stems are weak and twine themselves around any object they contact. The leaves vary a great deal, but for the most part are arrow or bell shaped. The flowers are white or slightly pink and funnel-shaped like those of the Morning Glory.

Field Bindweed can be controlled but it calls for persistent effort. The top growth may be killed by 10 ounces of 2,4-D low volatile ester acid per acre. It will take three or more treatments of 24 ounces of 2,4-D low volatile ester acid per acre to kill the roots. Apply 2,4-D treatments in mid June when flowering has commenced and in early September. A black fallow, cultivated every 10 to 12 days for two growing seasons, will clean out most infestations. However, there is a loss in letting land lie idle, producing no crop, for such a long period.

For small patches, spot treatment with a soil sterilant is recommended. Sodium chlorate mixtures (atracide, ercocide) at 2 lbs. per 100 square feet, Monuron (C.M.U.) at 1 lb. per square rod, or Boron compounds at 5-6 lb. Boron Trilixide equivalent per square rod will eradicate Field Bindweed.

SMITHFIELD GETS LAB

A new $175,000 Canada Department of Agriculture fruit and vegetable processing laboratory at the Smithfield, Ontario, horticultural substation was opened to the public August 18th.

Open house featured a discussion by Mr. J. Yeatman of the U.S.D.A., on a new system for grading raw tomatoes. This system is proposed for 1960.

Growers, processors and others interested in this field attended.

This 23-room building features a pilot plant, several freezing and cold storage rooms, a quality control laboratory and test kitchen.

The new structure complements existing research facilities at the substation and will facilitate studies on both field performance and processing of fruits and vegetables.

It is well equipped for canning and freezing studies.

Main research projects at Smithfield emphasize: Processing evaluation of new varieties; evaluation of cultural practices such as irrigation; effect of growth hormones and pesticides on the composition and quality of processed produce.

KEEP YOUR EYE ON PINKEYE

Perhaps you're not worried about that steer with the sore eye. And maybe you're right, and it's nothing but a bit of irritating chaff; but it could just as easily be a contagious disease called pinkeye, that spreads to other cattle.

The bad thing about pinkeye is that it doesn't appear to be a serious problem. An Ontario farmer might buy some Western feeders and within a few weeks find the eyes of his whole herd are watering and swelling, says Prof. G. E. Rathby, Head of the Animal Husbandry Department, of the Ontario Agricultural College.

Beef cattle go off feed and dairy cattle drop in milk if pinkeye strikes. Blindness may also develop, but loss of sight may be only temporary. A rapid loss of weight occurs if the animal can't see to eat.

The disease appears suddenly and is rapidly spread by contact with eye discharges on muzzles of infected animals. Flies are often the spreaders. Watering eyes and blinking swollen eyelids are among the first signs. The entire eye may become covered with a white film, and the animal will appear depressed. A red pea-sized bump may appear near the colored part of the eye leaving a red raw ulcer. Animals sometimes bellow and become violently delirious with pain.

Acute pinkeye is most common in cattle exposed to dust and glaring sunlight. Young cattle are attacked more often since some immunity is built up after the first attack. The average outbreak lasts three weeks, and most cattle recover completely with the exception of the odd case of partial blindness.

Good management is the most effective and practical means of treatment. A warm solution of 4% boric acid or 1% argyrol may be used twice daily to wash out the eyes of the more gentle milking cows.

Treatment isn't recommended for beef animals since the effects of wind, dust and excitement will probably outweigh the effects of any remedies.

Prevention is largely a matter of avoiding the purchase of carriers. Sick and affected animals should be isolated in darkened quarters to ease pain and reduce chance of spread. Fly control is a good pinkeye preventive.

Middle age is when our tripping becomes less light and more fantastic.

CONSERVATION NEWS

FOREST PROTECTION

Many people are visiting the summer camps and cottages at this time of the year. Perhaps a special reminder to those who plan to spend a holiday in the outdoors is not untimely.

To date, 53 forest fires have occurred in this district. Most of these fires were caused by sheer carelessness on the part of someone travelling in lake and wooded areas.

The precautions against forest fires are simple enough: In town or city, a fire might start from one of many causes. In the woods, a fire is invariably due to thoughtlessness. A cigarette that should have been butted is tossed away when travelling in the forest or from a car window.

The fire made during a fishing, camping or picnic trip is left smouldering when the simple precaution is to douse it thoroughly with water. The traveller in a wooded area throws away his cigarette as casually as he would discard it on a paved street, when it is such a simple matter to stamp it out.

This is the season of forest fires. It takes so little thoughtfulness to prevent them: Do not throw away lighted cigarettes, cigars or pipe ashes. Do not throw away lighted matches. Choose campfire sites carefully, and extinguish campfires completely.

He's Getting The Answers To Your Stilbestrol Questions

Tom Burgess has probably done as much work with stilbestrol as anyone in North America. The Ontario Agricultural College researcher's major findings with this growth stimulant in the last year have been:

Approximately 20c worth of stilbestrol per animal will give between 20 and 30 percent increased gains.

Steers implanted with stilbestrol on grass alone outgained those on grass with no stilbestrol by 30 percent.

There is no difference in response between implanted stilbestrol and stilbestrol administered in the feed.

There is a good indication that there is not much advantage of re-implanting at 100 days when you are feeding for a 200-day period.

Dr. Burgess has set up a list of suggestions for implanting and feeding stilbestrol:

"For steers that are going on grass, I recommend a 24 milligram implant, whereas steers that are to be fattened in the feedlot on a high-grain ration do best on a 36 milligram implant," says the researcher.

His suggestions for a 100-day feeding period with stilbestrol as an implant and fed orally are: "Stay with the 36 milligram implant when you're feeding stilbestrol, but feed it at a level of 10 milligrams per head per day, which over a 100-day period adds up to 1000 milligrams."

"There is a big difference in the amount used, but since it's fairly cheap, it's not a major factor. For instance, if you haven't got a loading chute or pen to hold steers for implants, or have to pay veterinarians for implanting, you might want to feed rather than supply stilbestrol through an implant," he says.

An overdosing, Burgess says: "You will probably run into side effects like elevated tailheads, flattened rump, and depressed loins which make the conformation of an animal less desirable."

The Canadian woodlands are chiefly owned by the Crown.

900,000 Canadians Own Boats

One in 20, or 900,000 Canadians, today own boats valued at from $50 to $25,000 each. This makes Canada the most boat-minded nation in the world, John Dalrymple writes in the current issue of Liberty magazine.

This year, factories will turn out 40,000 new boats, and 60,000 outboard motors. For do-it-yourselfers, more than a dozen Canadian companies put out boat kits. These range in size from a $50 six-foot "pram" that holds one person, to a sleek 21-foot cabin cruiser for $1,000. Pieces are pre-cut and numbered.

Outboard motorboats are the most popular with Canadians. A few prefer the two-tone effects of newer models. These include "hardtops" and "convertibles" and "landaus," writes Dalrymple. "They have key-starting, power steering, moulded windshields, electric windshield wipers, tailfins, and speeds that reach 60 m.p.h. The built-in buoyancy in tailfins keeps the boat from overturning if it swamps."

All but the smallest crafts have remote steering controls, forward-reverse gears, motorized baling and electric starting buttons. They're sold on easy payment plans, and you can get sail-now-pay-later credit cards for buying gasoline, oil and groceries. One Winnipeg boating enthusiast spent a recent winter building a 16-foot runabout in his basement. In the spring he realized it was much too big to get out the door. He hired a wrecking company who dug up the foundation, knocked out the rear wall of his house, and removed the boat. "The following winter, the foundation still hadn't been repaired," writes Dalrymple. "The boat had been too busy on Lake Winnipeg all summer."

Hunter Safety Programme

The new policy adopted by the Department of Lands and Forests in respect to Hunter Safety applies as it sounds. To make hunting a safe recreational venture to be enjoyed by all.

In the Forest District of Tweed there are now over 120 authorized instructors who are quite capable of handling instructional courses to give everyone who requires it, the knowledge of safe and proper gun handling.

Sportsmen's Clubs and sponsors of Youth Organizations have assisted greatly in this new venture to have only trained hunters in the field and bush, making our great outdoors a place of safety and enjoyment. However, to facilitate the need to ensure that all may receive this course within their own communities, more instructors are needed. Application forms for Hunter Safety Instructors may be obtained by writing to the District Forester at Tweed.

This year anyone wishing to obtain a licence to carry a firearm must present one of the following:

(a) Any hunting licence issued in the name of the applicant.

(b) Produce a certificate of competence issued by an Instructor in Hunter Safety Training.

(c) Having neither of the above, a person must complete over a signature, an application for a hunting licence (Form HT 8). These forms are available at all licence issuers.

Issuers will retain any of the completed items or forms as mentioned above when tendered by the applicant in their own files for inspection by Department Officers.

World's Largest Office Building

Imagine trying to drill and blast an excavation in the middle of Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, without disturbing a full house, of whom two thirds are doing office work and the remainder are eating, sleeping or entertaining.

A comparable situation faced the Foundation Company of Canada Ltd. which is constructing Place Ville Marie — the world's largest office building complex. Located on the C.N.R. terminal site in the heart of Montreal, this great project is surrounded by large buildings such as the Sun Life Building, the Queen Elizabeth Hotel and others containing thousands of people. In addition, trains pass frequently through the site; and there are other complications.

To make satisfactory progress under these conditions, innovations in blasting technique that reduced noise, vibration and flyrock were developed. One novel means to help deaden noise, described in an article on Place

How To Keep From Working

This is an age replete with organizations and meetings.

There are so many, in fact, that jaded individuals sometimes wonder if something couldn't be done to reduce the time-wasting aspects.

If, however, you are wedded to the idea of getting together to discuss things and leaving them unsolved, as so many meetings do, here is an excellent programme for spending time to achieve nothing.

1. Profess not to have the answer. This let you out of having any.

2. Say that we must not move too rapidly. This avoids the necessity of getting started.

3. Say that the problem can't be separated from all other problems. Therefore, it can't be solved until all other problems have been solved.

4. For every proposal set up an opposite one and conclude that the "middle ground" (no opinion whatsoever) represents the wisest course of action.

5. Discover that there are all kinds of "dangers" in any specific formula of a conclusion.

6. Appoint a committee.

7. Wait until an expert can be consulted.

8. State in conclusion that you have all clarified your thinking. This obscures the fact that nothing has been done.

9. Point out that the deepest minds have struggled with the same problem. This implies that it does you credit even to have thought of it.

10. In closing the meeting, thank the problem. It has stimulated discussion, opened new vistas, shown us the way, challenged our inventiveness.

"Back To School" Buying Gains Momentum

The business of going back to school means plenty of shopping. This week is a good time to start.

There are notebooks, text books, pencils, protractors, geometry sets, pens, erasers, dictionaries and a dozen-and-one other things to be provided for the student every Fall.

Clothes are another problem that must be solved in the Fall.

Too soon the fine warm weather will give way to nippy, blustery and rainy weather that calls for warm footwear, soft woolen sweaters, raincoats, windbreakers and warmer suits.

For secondary school students the first few days of school are one mad whirl of buying text books. How much time and trouble they could save by buying beforehand.

Buy At Local Stores

The local stores have all the books and supplies needed by the students as well as a good stock of wearing apparel for the Fall and Winter seasons. Shop early and don't forget to shop in your home town stores.

Horticultural Society Hints

Plants can be kept growing and flowering by cultivation, good watering and feeding, even though the weather is hot. The liquid fertilizers are excellent, but follow the instructions to the letter when you use them.

Weeding is essential, as you weed watch for pests, insects and diseases and then spray or dust to control and you find. Watch carefully for signs of red spider mites which are particularly troublesome in hot spells. They are so tiny that they can seldom be seen on the plant with the unaided eye; but they will show up if tapped onto white paper. Spray with any good insecticide.

After the crop of beans have been harvested pull up and burn the plants to destroy any beetles that may have gathered. The compost pile is no place to dispose of the plants.

This month you must plant Iris. There are many tall bearded Iris for spring colour and elegance.

How To Plant

If you've received your rhizomes from a nursery they'll likely be dry. Soak for a few hours in a dish of water. Prepare the planting area well by digging the soil to a depth of 10 inches. If soil is clay add some peat moss, compost or sand. Work in well.

If you plant one rhizome of several varieties to a clump you'll have to wait at least two years for a massed effect. For quicker results plant 3 or more in a group.

When you have prepared your soil, dig out a hole about 6 inches deep, making it fairly wide. Now put back about 2 trowels of soil in the middle to form a mound. The Iris has a thick fleshy rhizome with small roots growing from the bottom. With the fan of leaves facing you, put half the roots on one side of mound and half on the other. The thick rhizome sits neatly on top of the mound. This should be covered with about one inch of soil. With trowel, put soil over the roots — about one trowelful on each. Now step firmly on the covered roots. Next add about one teaspoon of well-balanced chemical fertilizer to the depressions over the roots. After this application water in well and fill in the depressions with dry soil. It will need watering about once a week until frost if rainfall is not sufficient.

McFarland Gets Contract of Over Million

The H. J. McFarland Construction Company of Picton has been awarded a contract in the amount of $1,282,077 for alterations, repair and replacement of facilities at the Trenton Air Station. It has been announced by Mr. Lee Grills, M.P. for Hastings South.

Actual work on the project will commence in the fall with local labor, materials and services to be used wherever possible. The McFarland Construction Company was the lowest bidder for the job.

The contract covers a variety of items at the big air station which is being transformed from Training Command to Air Transport Command.

Preliminary construction work on a new $6,000,000 hangar is already underway at the base, while the McFarland contract will cover major alterations necessary due to the changed type of operations which will be carried out under the new setup.

The contract covers water and sewer services, an electrical distribution system, landscaping, paving and associated services.

In making the announcement of the contract, Mr. Grills said he was glad to see the contract come to the McFarland Company.

"It will be a real boost to employment in the Quinte area and will benefit suppliers, industry and labor in the area," he said.

Mr. Grills went on to say that the expansion at Trenton Air Station was proof that the changeover in the function of the air station would not adversely affect Trenton and district, as had been rumored during the last Federal election campaign.

He noted that the magnitude of the work to be done proved that operations at the air station actually were to be expanded and that the expansion would be stable and permanent which would not have been the case under the previous arrangement.

A plaque honoring John Walden Meyers, United Empire Loyalist, founder of Belleville, was unveiled by one of his descendants, Glen Meyers, in Victoria Park Sunday.

The plaque is one of a series being erected by the Ontario Travel and Publicity Department in conjunction with the Archeological and Historical Sites Board.

Gerald Boyce, President of the Hastings County Historical Society, conducted the ceremonies, which were attended by local dignitaries.

RIVER VALLEY
WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

September 3rd at 2.00 p.m. at the River Valley School. Roll call, "If I were a shut-in, how would I like to be remembered?" Visiting Institutes will provide two numbers.

Wellman's

Mr. and Mrs. Will Lock, Varcovan Beach, Brighton, were supper guests on Thursday of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott.

Misses Margaret and Mary Dracup spent the past week holidaying with their aunt, Miss Annie Cook, of Erin. Mr. and Mrs. Ken Matthews and Gordon, of Baltimore, spent a few days at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Omar Dracup and family.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rainie and Miss Emma Rainie and Mr. and Mrs. James Rainie and Linda, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bristol, Miss Maribeth Bristol and Miss Susanne Campbell, of Belleville, and Mrs. W. B. Totton, of Toronto, were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McKinnon and Malcolm and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Russel and Ronald, Toronto, at a cottage at Chandos Lake, where they are camping.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron Seeley and girls spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ira Althouse, Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Will Lock at their cottage, Varcovan Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Graham, Harwood, visited recently with Mrs. Victor Graham and family.

Wellman's W.I.

Mrs. Lorne Watson, Stirling, was hostess for the regular meeting of Wellman's Woman's Institute on Wednesday afternoon, August 19th. There was a good attendance of members, children and visitors.

Mrs. Seeley conducted the meeting. During the business plans were made for a bake sale in Stirling in October. A motion was passed to give $3.00 to the Stirling Women's Institute to assist in prizes for Stirling Fair.

The roll call, "Why I should take an office," proved everyone believed they should. Current events prepared by Mrs. Craig Watson were read by Mrs. Geo. Watson.

The motto, "If you plant a seed of character in the home it will bloom in the community," was given by Mrs. Jack Dunham and showed this seed cannot be planted in one day; but takes daily living of good examples to plant the seed in children so they will go out in the world and bloom in the community.

Mrs. Lindsay Pollock gave a talk on "The Hydro Clock at Queenston" and also mentioned different places of interest at Niagara worth visiting when there.

The balance of the programme was piano solos by Carol Seeley and Anne Watson; vocal solo, Nancy Tompkins, and a duet by Janice and Valerie Clancy.

Mrs. Watson was presented with a gift from the members by Mrs. Clifford Clancy. Mrs. Seeley thanked Mrs. Watson for opening her home for the afternoon and after a contest on animals, conducted by Mrs. Douglas Clancy, the meeting closed in usual form.

The lunch committee assisted by the hostess, served a dainty lunch.

The North Hastings District President, Mrs. Geo. McCrimmon, will be a visitor at the next meeting, September 16th at the home of Mrs. Jack Dunham.

BROWN — In loving memory of a wonderful mother, Edna Alberta, who passed away August 28th, 1958.

God knew that she was suffering, That the hills were hard to climb, So he closed her weary eyelids And whispered "Peace be thine." Away in the beautiful hills of God, By the valley of rest so fair Some day, we know not when He will meet our mother there.

OF MANY THINGS

(By Ambrose Hillis)

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE

I've paid plenty to the unemployment insurance fund over the years and have always hoped I would never have to collect any. In the same way, I have paid a good deal of hospital and medical insurance, hoping never to need it. At the same time, I feel better knowing I have paid for protection. Today, however, I am convinced that the Unemployment Insurance Fund is hornswoggling me and thousands of others who put their money and faith in it.

Instead of being used for its right and proper purpose — insurance against unemployment — it has become a sort of annuity deal. According to Senator Creer, there is a terrific drain on the fund in this way. Those who count on the fund to insure them against hardship when they lose a job are entitled to be worried. If it is true that thousands of men who retire on pension are picking up unemployment insurance at the same time, there is something very unsound about the system.

Not that I blame these men. Many of them may be in the same situation that I am — having paid in plenty, and never having had to use the fund, they feel they ought to get their money back. That's a human enough feeling — but it makes no actuarial sense at all. The money paid to Unemployment Insurance is not an investment or pension fund — it is protection against risk. If it is going to be used for pension or annuity purposes, it is just not going to be in the kitty to cover risk. If we had a sudden bad recession, what would happen?

I suggest the situation would be tragic. At the very time when the fund would be counted on to relieve hardship, it would have a bare cupboard.

Will the government rectify this situation and get the fund back on the tracks? Let us hope so. But remember that it will be a difficult task, because it is always tempting for governments to use such instruments for all sorts of social purposes, right or wrong. Governments do not want to offend any voters. Governments often abandon business sense in an effort to be popular.

Such popularity could prove short-term indeed if these unemployment insurance monies which we have paid in are not there when we really require them.

T.C.A. Viscount Using Brilliant Orange-Red Fluorescent Markings

A Trans-Canada Air Lines Viscount has taken to the air in brilliant orange-red fluorescent markings, type testing a new high-visibility paint.

It marks the first time a major commercial carrier has carried out significant experiments with the product.

Designed to render aircraft more easily visible in the air, it has been used extensively for a number of years on military and some private and commercial craft.

The single TCA aircraft has had the luminescent compound applied to all existing markings, plus the undersides of the wing tips and elevators.

The type trials will evaluate the effectiveness, durability and maintenance requirements of the material.

The paint is a little more difficult to apply, weighs 13 pounds more and costs about $750 per Viscount as compared to $400 present required for a new paint job. It is expected to last about two years before repainting, about the same as the present product.

Manufacturer of the luminescent paint is Switzer Bros., of Cleveland, Ohio.

The single Viscount will be operated on most routes across Canada and into the United States during evaluation.

World Famous Carver Lives In Pembroke

The depression gave Abe Patterson his start.

When the Pembroke mill where he was employed closed in 1932, he turned his hobby of whittling into the full-time profession of wood-carving.

"It was just a way to keep going at first but I soon was making a good living and I never did get back to the factory," he said.

Now his carvings decorate the homes of Hollywood stars; ventriloquists call on him to carve heads for dummies and producers seek his carvings for motion picture sets and properties.

His Favorites

Most of his carvings are of Canadian wild animals; the moose and bear are favourites.

Replicas of Indian totem poles are a specialty.

He carved one over 56 feet tall for millionaire Garfield Weston, then floated it up the Madawaska river to the Weston lodge in Victoria Lake in Algonquin Park.

Another of his totem poles is a feature attraction at the tourist bureau in Pembroke, still Mr. Patterson's home although he spends much of the year exhibiting his work at fairs and exhibitions across Canada and the United States.

Before doing his first totem pole he spent several weeks on the West Coast studying Indian motifs and techniques.

Real Design

"All my Indian work is based on real Indian design," he said. "If a totem pole doesn't tell a story in Indian symbols it isn't worth anything."

Mr. Patterson began his carving career with a set of expensive wood-carving tools but scrapped them in favor of simple implements he makes himself.

They're all made of Swedish razor steel and each is designed for his own technique.

He has few competitors.

"There are some excellent carvers in Quebec doing habitat figures," he says, "but I don't know of anyone else in the country doing the animals."

A house fire at Wooler early Friday morning completely demolished a house belonging to T. Major despite the efforts of the Trenton Fire Department.

Set Inquiry Date For Belleville

A judicial inquiry into the financial affairs of the city of Belleville will begin September 28th, Mayor Gerald Hyde announced Tuesday.

The inquiry, to be conducted by judge Arthur Roy Wilmott, of Cobourg, was called after an audit revealed a $225,000 deficit in city funds. About $140,000 of the deficit was incurred by the Belleville Memorial Arena which operates the world champion Belleville McFarland hockey team.

NEWS FOR THE BUSY FARMER

TIPS ON FAN USE IN THE DAIRY BARN

Fall is fast coming on and if you had trouble with drip and frost on your barn walls last winter, now's the time to think about fixing up your ventilation.

"A fan is needed in the spring and fall," says Larry Donoghue, Kemptville Agricultural School, one of the Ontario Department of Agriculture's farm building specialists. "We've found that you need a fan rating of 100 CFM (100 cubic feet per minute) for each 1,000 pounds of stock in the barn. This usually works out to 100 CFM per head in the barn."

"Don't buy fans on the diameter alone," advises Donoghue. "Buy on the manufacturer's rating in CFM. For example, a barn having about 35 head in it would need a fan with a rating of about 3,500 CFM. For large barns with over 40 head, two fans are needed: One at about 1/3 of the total rating and running constantly, while the other operates on thermostatic control. Single fans of the 3-speed type or the thermostatically controlled shutter type will also give more even air circulation than the standard type of single fan."

Best locations? He suggests placing the fan on the side of the barn away from the prevailing wind, and preferably near the corner of the stable. One idea is to put the fan near the box stalls to pull the warm air towards the calves.

Donoghue says: "Put the fans as high as possible and set them in a window frame in place of the normal sash. Ducts on the inside of the stable around the fan aren't necessary. They only restrict air circulation. In a two-fan installation, keep the fans close together."

Other Ideas

A fan won't work satisfactorily without a thermostat. Use the mercury bulb type or other types not used in houses. Locate them on a post or on carrier beams near the centre of the barn where they're out of drafts.

In newer barns, control the air intake. Where the window sash is divided, if the top 1-3 or 1-4 of each sash is tipped in 3-16 to 1-4 inch, you'll have reasonable control. If strong winds are a problem, put wind-proof inlets (galvanized iron or plywood) about 10 to 15 feet apart around the stable. Don't locate inlets within 20 feet of the fan.

CHICK RATION SUPPLEMENT UNDER STUDY

Benefits from inclusion of an antibiotic or an arsonic acid derivative in chick rations may hinge on the degree of exposure to disease infection, it was indicated in nutrition studies at the Canada Experimental Farm.

Chicks were reared to six weeks of age in cleaned and disinfected battery brooders. Supplementation of their ration with an arsonic acid derivative (45 grams per ton of 3-nitro-4-hydroxyphenylarsonic acid) or aureomycin (15 grams per ton) had no influence on body weight gains or feed efficiency.

Improve Gains

Both compounds, however, improved the weight gains and feed efficiency of chicks reared on old litter in floor pens, where the degree of disease infection presumably would be higher than in the battery brooders.

Arsonic acid and aureomycin were equally effective and no further improvement in growth was noted when the two compounds were fed in combination. It would appear that the growth stimulating mechanism might well be the same for the arsonic acid compounds and the antibiotics.

Further tests are in progress to determine whether the response to arsonic acid may be influenced by ration composition.

URGES CAREFUL TRACTOR CHECKS

A tractor and a furnace may not seem to have much in common, but did you know that a tractor radiator normally removes as much heat from the engine as is produced by the average furnace?

J. L. Thompson of the Federal Experimental Farm at Swift Current, Sask., emphasizes that the cooling system in a tractor or engine requires good maintenance to keep it performing at a high level. Dirt, he says, is the worst enemy of the cooling system — both inside and out.

Causes Heating

Scale and rust slowly close the tubes and plug water passages in the cylinder head and block. This coating, besides heat transfer, reduces heat transfer and, in time, especially under heavy loads on hot days, the tractor overheats.

Where water is used as a coolant, anti-rust additives are recommended to retard rust and scale formation. When a radiator becomes plugged, it should be cleaned by a shop specializing in radiator repair.

Leaves, insects, straw and soil on the outside of the core may cause overheating. Air passages in the radiator core should be cleaned periodically with an air hose. Fan belts should be adjusted frequently during the operating season. Thermostats and hoses should be checked when heating occurs, and replaced if faulty.

Use Anti-Freeze

Anti-freeze is needed for late fall and early spring tractor use. Besides preventing a cracked block and radiator, anti-freeze contains additives which keep the inside core in good condition.

"Proper care and periodic checks of the tractor cooling system will prevent delay in the field during the busy season and avoid serious damage to a high priced machine," comments Mr. Thompson.

FIRST REPORT OF ACCIDENT PATTERN ON ONTARIO FARMS

First report of the Ontario Farm Accident Survey set up by the Ontario Department of Agriculture to determine the cause and economic loss resulting from farm accidents indicates that more than 1,800 accidents occurred during the months of March, April and May, the Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario announces. Sixty-two of the accidents were fatal, and one-third of the fatalities were suffered by persons under 21 years of age.

In addition, medical bills of more than $80,000, property damage of nearly one and a half million dollars, and a total lost working time of more than 16,000 days were inflicted.

"The fact that more than one third of the fatal accidents to farm people during this three-month period occurred off the farm, on our roads and highways, shows the soundness of the Department's farm safety programme to date which has been carried on in conjunction with the safety program of the Ontario Department of Transport," says Mr. Goodfellow.

The survey has also indicated that the farm kitchen is one of the most dangerous areas on the farm, with a total of 100 accidents occurring there, five of which were fatal.

Nearly one fourth of the accidents were caused by falls or stumbles, with loss of balance and frightened animals the two leading causes. Power equipment was involved in half of the fatalities.

"This first interim report clearly shows the seriousness of the farm accident picture," said Mr. Goodfellow, "and indicates the wisdom of establishing a safety education programme for Ontario farm people."

The report is the first of quarterly reports in the Department's Farm Accident Survey which will cover the one-year period from March, 1959 to February, 1960.

PASTURE THISTLES

Pasture thistles push their way into pasture and hayfields, and push out productive clovers and grasses. Pasture thistles are varied in appearance but apart from the attractive purple of the flower they have little to recommend them. Even bulls avoid bull thistles.

The hardest highland man would give a wide berth to the scotch thistle covered with fine white hairs, and sharp spines. One of the group, nodding thistle, hangs its head, but not until it has done its damage.

These thistles are classed as biennials, points out the Field Crops Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. The seeds produce a flat rosette of leaves in midsummer. The following spring the rosette grows rapidly and heaves up a flowering stalk. On fertile land these stalks may attain a height of five feet or more. Since these thistles have a tap root they may be dug up and killed, but are usually present in such large numbers that this method is uneconomical. Mowing will destroy a crop of flowers, but a week or two later new flowers form below the cut section.

On waste land, provided a spray machine can be used, these thistles are controlled with 2,4-D at the rate of 1 lb. of acid per acre. On old pasture fields where white clover is the only legume present, 2,4-D amine at the same rate may be used. For best results, spray just as the plants are starting to bud, since at this time both the plants about to produce seed and the small rosettes are present and killed.

Detailed information on such weeds and their control is available from the office of the County Agricultural Representative.

FRUIT CROPS SEEN SMALL

Canada's fruit crops will be smaller this year than in 1958, predicts the Fruit and Vegetable Division, Canada Department of Agriculture.

Loganberries are the only exception and they are produced only in British Columbia.

Spring frosts and winter injury combined to lower estimates in all producing provinces.

Tree fruits in Ontario's Niagara district were further damaged by a hail and wind storm July 6th. Extent of the damage is still undetermined but some areas that were exposed to the full force of wind reported severe bruising on sour cherries and early varieties of plums.

Hail also damaged grapes, peaches, pears and tomatoes — severely in areas in the center of the storm and lightly in fringe areas.

THE FOOD BASKET

BUY A BROCCOLI BOUQUET

Broccoli is one of the flowers of the cabbage family. The flower, stem and tender leaves are all edible.

When shopping broccoli, select clean, dark green, compact clusters with tightly closed buds and tender, firm stalks. If leaves or buds are yellowish and stalks seem tough or woody it means the broccoli has passed its prime. One pound of good quality broccoli, requiring little trimming, will provide 3 to 4 servings.

Use broccoli soon after buying, while it is still crisp and fresh. If you must keep it for a day or two, wrap in waxed paper, foil or film and store in your refrigerator hydrator.

Broccoli tastes best when cooked in a small amount of salted water until just tender, 10 to 15 minutes. Stems will cook more quickly if slashed lengthwise up to the flower.

This vegetable is also good served raw with other vegetables on a relish tray or in tossed salads. Broccoli blends well with many flavours and seasonings: Serve it hot simply with salt, pepper and butter; try it with hollandaise, cheese or lemon butter sauce; or saute some fresh mushrooms briefly in butter and pour over the cooked broccoli just before serving.

Home Frozen Broccoli is Good And Easy To Prepare

Simply trim off and discard inedible parts, cut through stalks so that pieces of heads are not more than 1 inch thick, and wash carefully. Blanch (dip in boiling water) for 2 minutes, chill quickly, drain and pack in freezer bags or packages. Freeze.

To cook 1 pint container of frozen broccoli, add 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1/2 cup boiling water to broccoli in saucepan. Cook 3 to 5 minutes, using a fork to break vegetable pieces apart during heating, so they will cook uniformly.

THE BIBLE TODAY

(By Rev. C. R. Rudd)

On top of the Koya-San Mountain in Japan there is a plateau and the area is covered with monasteries of the Shingonshu sect, which was established by the Japanese Bible Society from the Waka-who had returned to Japan after many years of study in China.

Two teams of colporteurs of the Japan Bible Society from the Waka-yama-Ken prefecture extended their work to cover this Buddhist Monastery. They visited among the one hundred temples and monasteries, and endeavoured to interest the students of the Buddhist University and high schools in the Scriptures. The town's population is reported to be 10,000 and the surrounding towns and villages are under strong influence from Koya-San Mountain.

It is reported that after the six members of the two teams had spent half-a-day in prayer they commenced their work. Great difficulties were surmounted, and opposition gave way to co-operation. Fifty copies of the New Testament were asked for by the Principal of one of the high schools, who later ordered fifty copies more for lower school pupils.
